Transformation Marathon

17–18 October 2015

Celebrating the tenth anniversary of the Serpentine Marathon series, this year's Transformation Marathon invites artists, musicians, sociologists, anthropologists, writers, architects, scientists and philosophers to address cultural, political and physical shifts. The Transformation Marathon invokes the hidden knowledge of magic and alchemy. It investigates the strategies of cyborgs, magicians, parasites and storytellers to consider how to represent and effect change in the face of complexity. How can the arts and sciences reimagine aesthetics and politics? How are these individual and collective actions reflective of a precarious landscape?

Returning to the 24-hour format of the inaugural Interview Marathon in 2006, the Transformation Marathon takes place at the Serpentine Sackler Gallery on Saturday 17 October from 10am to 10pm and continues from midnight until noon on Sunday 18 October on the first Serpentine Radio broadcast, accessible at radio.serpentinegalleries.org.
